

"Vicki Howard and Norm Hardinge of KickAss Factory decided to make a documentary of their travels to the 2008 Bonneville Speed Week, the 60th Anniversary of the event. "Under The Radar" is the title of their production and it promises to be an indispensable record of the best speed event in the world. I have just seen a preview of the final version of this documentary style DVD production and it is a "must-have" for all hot rodding aficionados. Not only does it capture all the atmosphere and flavour of the event but it also gives intimate insights to many of the characters involved in this unique form of racing since it began back in the late 1940s. Many of the interviews and much of the background material included starts before the teams even reached the salt lakes so there are full and complete stories wound up in the overall package. If you have never been to Bonneville or don't fully understand the style of racing, there are interviews with operational crew describing how a vehicle is tech inspected for racing, for instance, before the car is even allowed to race. Such interviews describe in great details what is involved. Some of the most amazing crash scenes I have ever seen filmed at Bonneville are included, along with footage of the unique hot rod parking lot scenes from outside the Wendover Nugget Casino in the evenings This will be one of the most sought after records of Bonneville racing ever produced. Get One." Larry O'Toole, Editor, Australian Street Rodding.

"Under The Radar" promises to be an indispensable record of the best speed event in the world.
